EASTERN STATES.

Immense Conflagration in Boston.

BOSTON, Nov. 9.—A terrible conflagration is now raging at the corner of Summer and Kingston streets. The fire extends east and west on Kingston street, and north and south on Summer. Engines are hauled by hand. Four alarms have been sounded.

LATER.—There is no abatement in the fire, which is the most extensive that has visited the city for 20 years. It has extended the whole length of Winthrop Square, which embraces A. T. Stewart's, Anderson, Heath & Co., and Hosborne, Perkins & Co.'s stores. No estimate of the loss can be given, but reporters say it will be into millions.

The Suburban Fire Department has been called upon. The fire is now at its height. Buildings principally granite. A northwest wind is prevailing.

BOSTON, Nov. 9—11 P. M.—The fire is now raging within a block of the Western Union Telegraph Company's office. The operators are taking up the instruments, and preparing to vacate. Firemen and machinery have been ordered to Boston from the adjoining towns, so that if communication with New York is lost it will probably be soon restored. The fire has traveled half a mile through the heart of the business portion of the city, and is spreading with frightful rapidity.

11:30 P. M.—The fire is progressing toward Broad street, having swept both sides of Summer street to High and Purchase streets. Goods are being removed from stores in every direction, in the vicinity of the fire. Fire engines have been telegraphed for from Providence, Worcester and other places.

Midnight.—The fire is moving up Franklin street to Hawley street. The cathedral at the corner of Devonshire and Franklin streets is on fire, with no hopes of saving it. The flames are also spreading on Franklin and Congress streets. The fire has reached Broad wharves, south of Congress street, and vessels are on fire.

The Hartford and Erie railway depot is burned.

BOSTON, Nov. 10, 12:30 A. M.—The fire still rages. It is feared the entire area from Summer street on the south, Washington on the west, and Milk on the north, to the water on the east, will be laid waste.

Pearl street so far has escaped. The heat is intense.

1 A. M.—The flames have reached Washington street, north of Franklin. All the splendid granite warehouses on Franklin and Wentworth squares are burned. Fears are now entertained that the flames will sweep everything to State street, if not farther north.

1:30 A. M.—Buildings on the east side of Washington street are in imminent danger.

The Boston Pilot office and buildings on Franklin street are destroyed.

The wind continues northwest and fresh.

1:45 A.M.—Among the prominent buildings already destroyed are Cathedral block, Daniel Webster block, Pilot building, and the rear of the Boston Transcript building.

Orders have been given to blow up both corners at the junction of Devonshire and Milk streets.

The fire is spreading towards South Boston. It is also progressing towards State street from Franklin Square.

The Insurance Block, opposite the Pilot office, chiefly occupied by wholesale woolen dealers, is now on fire. An attempt is now being made to blow up the corners of Franklin Square to prevent the conflagration from extending further towards State street.

BOSTON, Oct. 10.—2:15 A. M.—The conflagration continues with fearful effect. After buildings were blown up, the apparent effect was to increase the horrible hold of the flames. The newspaper offices which are on the line of the fire, have made all preparations for removing their books and papers. The Boston Transcript office is already in flames.

The old South Church, dear to all Bostonians, has at last fallen a victim to the fire.

The Journal will next have to succumb, and the Post and Traveller will soon follow.

It is a terrible Sabbath that is dawning upon Boston, and we cannot tell when or where the work of destruction will cease. It is safe to say that the fire will not be checked until very far advanced. It is impossible to give any more details relative to the losses sustained, since those last sent. People talk of the losses in millions as readily now as they did of thousands at midnight.

8:30 A. M.—All valuables are being removed from State street banks and insurance offices. The Western Union Company are moving their valuable apparatus.

WORCESTER, Mass., Nov. 10, 1 A. M.—A special train from Boston, to carry the Worcester fire department to the burning city, made forty-four and a half miles in forty-five minutes.

NEW YORK, Nov. 10, 11:50 A. M.—The fire is still raging at Boston. The main office of the Western Union Telegraph Company was abandoned at 8:30, the buildings in the vicinity being blown up to check the fire.

BOSTON, Nov. 10, 1:30 P. M.—It is now confidently believed that the fire is under control, and the destruction of property has ceased. The loss of buildings burned will not fall short of two hundred million dollars, and will probably exceed that figure by $50,000,000. The burnt district is bounded by Summer, Federal, Broad, Central, Washington and Bradford streets. We are expecting trains every moment from Portland (Me.) and Springfield, with more assistance, though they cannot safely run up to the city.

CHICAGO, Nov. 10.—The following private dispatch has been received here, addressed to Gen. Stneger, general Superintendent of the Western Union Telegraph Company:

NEW YORK, 3 P. M.—At 2 o'clock the fire was considered under control. The losses of property are very great, but I have no data upon which to base opinion as to the amount. I have seen several estimates of $250,000,000. Few people have been made homeless, compared with the Chicago fire, and although large numbers have lost all, I think none will be without shelter or food for many hours.

(Signed) WM. ORTON,
President Western Union Telegraph Co.

CALIFORNIA.

From San Francisco.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 10.—The absorbing topic in the city to-day is the Boston fire. Crowds surround the newspaper offices, eager to receive every item of intelligence, and the extras published from time to time have found rapid sales. The only local insurance company affected directly by the disaster is the Fireman's Fund. The President estimates their losses at $100,000, which will be promptly paid. Foreign companies doing business here are largely involved, but the precise extent of loss cannot yet be ascertained.

Another Atlantic cable is in course of construction, which will be laid early next year. Its termini will be Land's End and Halifax. Its main length will be 3,000 miles, and the cost £1,200,000. It is being coiled on board the Great Eastern, in lengths of 250 mile coils.

Abstract of Treasurer Spinner's Forthcoming Annual Report.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—Gen. Spinner has about finished his report as Treasurer of the United States, and will send it to the Secretary the coming week. The receipts and expenditures by warrant to the 30th June, 1872, were as follows:

RECEIPTS.

Loans	$805,208,034
Internal revenue	130,642,177
Customs	216,370,286
Public Lands	2,275,774
War	20,099,012
Navy	3,260,193
Interior	3,200,980
Miscellaneous and repayments	27,776,171
Total net receipts	$709,668,076
Balance in Treasury, June 30, 1871	109,017,477
From credited as unavailable	19,242,243
Total	$817,925,349

EXPENDITURES.

Public debt	$580,300,862
Army	50,671,100
Navy	24,980,003
Interior	38,038,130
Treasury proper	24,080,456
Customs	17,049,668
Treasury—Interior	5,838,541
Internal Revenue	7,070,241
Diplomatic	1,084,580
Quarterly Salaries	116,622
War, civil branch	1,120,051
Judiciary	3,079,355
Total	$713,269,077
Carried to unavailable	12,124
Balance in Treasury close fiscal year	106,551,641
Total	$819,925,343

As compared with last year, the net receipts have been $121,509,852 less, and the net expenditures $157,727,895 less. The receipts from loans were, in round numbers, $115,000,000 less; from internal revenue, $13,000,000 less; from customs, $10,000,000 greater; from War, $2,000,000 less; from Land and the Navy, about the same; from the Interior, $2,500,000 more; from miscellaneous, $5,000,000 less. The expenditures on account of the public debt were $154,000,000 less; an account of the army, $2,000,000 less; navy, $2,000,000 less; Interior, $4,000,000 less; on account of the Treasury proper, Customs, Treasury—Interior, diplomatic service, and quarterly salaries and war, civil branch, about the same; internal revenue, $1,500,000 less; on account of the Judiciary, $700,000 more.

The conscience fund has been increased $2,977, and now amounts to $129,124.

Gen. Spinner recommends, as a matter of honest dealing on the part of the Government, that at the end of each fiscal year, a full description of all the sums unclaimed for interest be published, that have remained unpaid for two years.

The amount of securities left on deposit by the National Banks, chiefly to secure the redemption of their notes, is, in the par face value, $400,000,000.

A new check has been introduced upon disbursing officers, which requires a weekly examination and report as to the condition of all accounts from each depository. Of those 1,735 are received weekly, and copies are sent to the different Departments interested.

Incidentally Gen. Spinner mentions that efforts will soon be made to place the new loan.

A considerable part of the report is devoted to the absolute necessity of such an increase in salaries as will enable the Government to obtain the services of a class of men who, with the present pay, cannot be secured, before any real progress is made in reforming the civil service. The force in the Treasury is far too small to allow of proper precautions to be taken. He attributes the late defalcation in New York, the Hodge defalcation and others, directly to the small force which the law provides for. He thinks that to increase the pay till honest men without wealth can afford to take offices will, in a great measure, remedy the evil of offices so frequently falling into the hands of those who seek them solely for the "stealings" they afford.

THE CENSUS.

The Superintendent of the Census will no doubt substantially conclude his arduous labors in connection with his office with the transmission of his annual report to the Secretary of the Interior the 1st of next month. The preparation of the ninth census publications, including the compendium containing a digest of the other volumes of general popular use, will be finished. The remainder of the labor necessary to place the volumes before the public will lie with the Government Printer. It is anticipated that the first or population volume will be printed and bound, and laid on the tables of members of Congress when they meet in December. The other volumes will follow rapidly.

Gen. Walker has been impressed with the value and need of a quinquennial taking of the census and thinks it entirely practicable, but without reference to a permanent change in this particular, he will propose in his report that a census be taken in 1875, under a law which will permit and make necessary a compilation and publication of the returns before the centennial Fourth of July, in 1876.

The views of Gen. Walker in regard to the barbarous law which he has been compelled to execute in taking the census are well known, but in taking leave of the office he is likely to give them plainer expression than ever before.

THE LAND OFFICE.

Commissioner Drummond has found by his experience in the Land Office that it needs reorganization by a new law. He urged it last winter, but the persistency with which the "Liberal Reformers," Schurz, Fenton, Trumbull, Sumner et al., kept Congress in partisan political discussions, prevented this and other necessary business from receiving attention. Mr. Drummond has shown himself so competent and faithful a bureau officer that his assurance that the highest efficiency cannot be secured in his office without reorganization must be heeded by Congress this winter.

THE PATENT OFFICE.

The reorganization of the Patent Office, the plan of which was published last winter, will also come again before Congress. It failed for the lack of time last winter, and not from any opposition manifested. The bureau will be doubtless erected into a department on the same footing with the Agricultural Department. This would be an advantage in many respects. Almost the only effect of its connection with the Interior Department now is to give the Secretary of the Interior an unnecessary supervision over appointments, and to impose upon him the useless manual labor of affixing his signature three or four hundred times a week to the patents issued.

THE INDIAN BUREAU.

It is doubtful if a Commissioner of the Indian Office, to succeed Gen. Walker, can be appointed before the meeting of Congress. This office is the most responsible under the Government below the rank of a Cabinet position, unless, perhaps, that of Treasurer of the United States be excepted. The salary is but $3,000 per annum. There are plenty of people who would like the office at that salary, but unfortunately they are generally just the persons the Government would not like to have in the position. The men from whom the Government would like to choose a Commission are receiving two or three times $3,000 per year in private positions.

THAT "ADDITIONAL ARTICLE."

In reply to the exaggerated statements of the amount expended in telegraphing to England in regard to the additional article proposed to the Treaty of Washington, it is stated that the whole sum was less than $15,000.

Koopmanschap, who gained such notoriety by his importations of Chinamen into the South, is living in New York city.

Marriage vs Free Love.

Mrs. Livermore lately lectured in Boston on the above subject. The Globe says:

Her lecture was made up of a statement of a very high and pure ideal of marriage, succeeded by a short but sharp attack upon the doctrine of free love and its principal feminine apostle in this country, and was it is needless to say, very interesting and gracefully delivered. Mrs Livermore began by speaking of the ancient ideas of marriage among different nations, who considered woman as the inferior and slave of the man, and contrasted it with the account of the Creation given in Genesis, in which man and woman are both said to be made in the image of God. Man has been said to have judgment and reason, while woman has perception and feeling; man is the head, while woman, is the heart. God is all these, and in order that man should be made in His image it is necessary that he should have all these, and hence a man is only half a man until he is married; and hence it is said, "What God hath joined together let no man put asunder." The fact that perfect marriage is rare does not change the theory; we ought not to drag down our ideal because it is not easily attained. Because marriage has hitherto been legally a condition of slavery we should not say that it must continue so, as if that were the foundation of society.

Mrs. Livermore said that in looking about among young people she wondered that there was as much happiness as existed, and took occasion to say, by way of parenthesis, that she did not believe that there was more unhappiness in married life than out of it, but rather the reverse, and drew an extremely funny, although truthful, picture of the average courtship of a young couple who meet in society, fall in love, and marry. She then spoke of the fact that five-sixths of the applications for divorce come from couples who have been married only about six years; if they tided over that period they generally kept on to the end. Making another parenthesis she observed that when people told her that they had been married twenty-five or thirty or forty years, and had never quarrelled, she always accepted their statement with a large discount; if people were idiots, they might get along forever in a certain sloppy effusiveness of good nature; but sensible people had wills which were not easy to bend, and occasionally two who loved each other dearly would come into collision like two locomotives. When this happened, those who were wise receded, and determined that such a thing should not happen again. She then spoke of the different motives for which people marry, and said that she really believed, that, at the present time, more men marry the woman whom they love than women marry the men whom they prefer. This is partly because the men 'select their wives, partly on account of the wretched training of the women, who being reared dependent upon the care of a father or brother, naturally seek another protector and make a mercenary marriage. The remedy is to be found in educating the girls until, instead of being dawdling, idle, and lazy, they stand upon their own feet, then, and not till then, shall we have the grandest marriage.

Most divorces are granted at the request of wives, and the grounds upon which they are demanded are drunkenness and licentiousness. Mrs. Livermore spoke at some length of the inevitable harvest which follows the sowing of wild oats, and declared her belief that there was no safety for young men until they were held to the same standard of temperance purity, and chastity as their sisters. From this she went on to talk of the preponderance of men in the population of the West, and of women in that of the East, the result being that in the former locality the men grew coarse, while in the latter the women were held cheap. It is necessary, she said, to go back and give women the same training as men; then they find it for their advantage to go West as much as their brothers do, and will not sit down by the river of life and wait till a young man comes along and offers to paddle their canoe down the stream, but launch boldly out and row themselves. After defending Xantippe as a much abused character in history, and speaking of the unhappy marriages of several distinguished men, she closed this portion of her lecture by drawing a very beautiful picture of a true marriage.

She declared that the assertion of Mrs. Woodhull, that free love and female suffrage were identical, was utterly false. Free divorce she thought worse than free love. To say "I loved once," said she, is a libel on the name of love. Whoever loves once, loves every hour. They never loved who loved "once." Who loves once, loves as God loves, forever. She then spoke of the manner in which the subject of love is treated in some modern French novels; of Jim Bludso, with his

"One wife in Natchez under the hill,
And another here in Pike;"

and of the Kit Carson drawn by Joaquin Miller, leaving his stolen bride to die in the prairie fire, while he rides away on her father's stolen horse. She explained all this as a social epidemic of moral looseness everywhere prevalent, so that society, although having a high standard of intellectual culture, stands with its feet in the mire of sensualism. The lecture closed with an animated portrayal of the wide difference between the results of the doctrine of marriage and of free love, and an invitation to the audience to choose between them.

Doleful Details of Bill Callahan's Beer.

Bill Callahan is a Shamburg man, who drills wells for a living; to Titusville came this here Bill, and he hadn't a single misgiving. When he struck the town he sauntered down to a lager beer saloon, and with a leer, said, "Bring me beer and you can't get it here too soon." But when he'd quaffed his beer he laughed as the landlord reached for his nickel, and said, "Chalk it down; before I leave town the stamps your hand shall tickle." But the saloon boss said, "See here, old hoss, I don't do business that way; come down with the scrip, or I'll bust your lip, and make you run this day." This was enough for Bill, who was an ugly pill, and he spit on his clenched fist, and the landlord's snout he seized with a shout, and gave it an awful twist. Then the latter's wife joined the bloody strife, and grabbed up a pop bottle, which she threw with a shug into Callahan's mug, just as he reached for her husband's throttle. But Bill kept his grip, although his under lip was badly cut by the missile, and by a movement with his leg took the woman down a peg, where she lay and tooted on a watchman's whistle. Then in come a "police" who said let us have peace, and he emphasized his language with a club, which he carelessly let drop upon every top knot that he could reach, but didn't draw blood. Then signalling for assistance, though his game made no resistance, to the lockup all three did go. No partiality was shown, so far as it known, but they "took in" Bill, the landlord, and his frow. And when the morning came, though all felt a little lame, from their beds each quickly did arouse, and with faces drawn down marched slowly through the town, to call on Police Justice Simon Strouse. When the latter had made ready, he took a long and steady look into the face of the three. Then he gazed at the docket, and said: "Feel in every pocket, and what you find bring over here to me." But save a dull case-knife, which was found on the landlord's wife, not a single effect could they raise, which so incensed the squire that he 'lowed his voice to higher, and said: "Away with 'em to jail for ninety days!"

Moral: Now all Shamburg sports, when you feel out of sorts, and trust that your troubles will be pried. Refuse to pay for your beer, but from Simon Strouse steer clear, for if he goes for you, you won't be acquitted.

HUMOROUS.

"How much is that pie plant?" said a dweller of a quiet district to a vender of the material Saturday evening. "Sixty cents," responded the dealer. "How much?" whispered the dweller, struggling to catch his breath. "Sixty cents," repeated the accommodating merchant. "Can it be possible there is a just heaven above us!" murmured the stranger. "Yes, sir," said the vender, respectfully. The stranger withdrew.

An Irish justice of the peace in Treasure City, Nevada, issued a subpœna to another Irishman to attend as witness in a case where J. R. was plaintiff, and G. R. et al. defendants. Mike appeared in court before the trial commenced, and asked: "Judge, who is et al?" To which his honor condescended to respond: "I am surprised that an American citizen of ordinary intelligence should not know the meaning of et al; and for the benefit of the witness and the gentlemin prisint in the court, I will explain. It is dirivated from the two Latin words contracted, and manes, in its litheray sinse, at all! at all!"

A good story is told of a widow lady whose husband died far away from home, and it took so long for his remains to reach her that his relict had quite recovered from her grief, and was giving a large lunch party when they finally arrived. A wagon drove up to the door and a large box was handed out. Curiosity ran high among the ladies at the window, and with one accord they exclaimed, "Why, Mrs. Jones, what can that be?" Up went Mrs. Jones' eye-glasses, and after a glance she coolly said, "Why, it must be Jones has come home early, run down and open the door and let him in."

A little Danbury boy was sent away school Monday to go chestnutting. During the expedition he fell two or three times to the imminent danger of his neck, was kicked by one of his mates whose breath he materially lessened by striking against his stomach, ran a splinter into his knee, and was bitten violently by a new kind of bug. When he arrived home his father annointed the bite end of a billiard cue, and the school the teacher escorted him to the room by his poorest ear. He says that chestnuts are so wormy this year that it don't pay to go after them.

The Conflagration in Boston.

That terrible Saturday night and Sunday of the 7th and 8th of October, 1871, that laid Chicago in ashes, has been repeated in Boston. All last Saturday night and all the afternoon of Sunday the flames ran riot in the very heart of the city, destroying the finest buildings by entire blocks. The loss of property is estimated at $250,000,000.

At the last dates—1:30 P. M. of Yesterday—it was thought the fire was under control, and it is hoped the next intelligence will confirm that supposition.

The district swept by the conflagration is quite extensive, and being in the center of the business part of the city, the loss is necessarily very heavy in proportion to the extent of the fire.

Fortunately there are comparatively few persons left homeless by this fire. Thus is Boston spared one of the most appalling circumstances that attended the burning of Chicago. But there cannot but be much suffering in consequence of this fire.

The annihilation of so vast an amount of wealth will be felt throughout the country. It is a calamity, not to Boston only, nor to the State of Massachusetts alone, but to the entire country.

A Novel Plan of Popular Elections.

The adoption of the mode of choosing all our officers, judicial as well as legislative and executive, by a vote of the people, naturally introduced greater inducements to the corruption of the ballot, than existed when one entire department of the public service was kept out of the arena of party politics. And the adoption of the principle of "manhood suffrage"—dispensing with the necessity of any qualification except that of being a free citizen, and enfranchising a very large class of persons who had not been electors before—by greatly increasing the number of voters, greatly augmented the facilities for fraudulent practices. To meet these new conditions, there has been much legislation of late years designed to afford better protection against frauds, to secure the polls against disorder and the individual against imposition and oppression. Thus we have more stringent laws for conducting the election, and more efficient checks upon attempts to interfere with individual freedom at the election, so that with vigilant attention on the part of candidates and their friends, it is possible in most places, to preserve, to a reasonable degree, the purity of the ballot box. That the elections are not conducted with some approach to fairness is now generally attributable largely to the neglect or inattention of those who would be naturally expected to use the means provided by law to prevent corruption.

But the evil sought to be remedied in transferred one step farther back, rather than eradicated. On the day of election the citizen can exercise his right of choice freely, and with a reasonable expectation that it will have its due weight in determining the contest; but in a vast majority of cases, it is then only a choice between two candidates, neither of whom he has selected or helped to select. Frequently, indeed, the candidates on both sides are persons brought forward for special party or private purposes, and who would never have been presented to the voters upon a fair expression of their preferences. The exigencies of party politics require nominations to be made in some way, to the end that the entire strength of the party may be concentrated upon a single person to fill each office, instead of being squandered upon a number, and thus enabling the adverse party, by concentration, to elect persons who will administer the Government upon a policy that is endorsed by only a minority of the electors. Upon this ground alone the machinery of primaries and conventions for party purposes, is defensible. It is the use of a system full of imperfections, and which has always worked badly in its practical operation, for the purpose of avoiding greater evils. These party primaries and conventions have never received the hearty approbation of the honest people of the country. They have been accepted in lieu of something worse, and because the better thing has not been presented.

A writer in a Chicago paper discusses this question of bringing out candidates for office, and concludes that the ordinary plan is a wretched failure so far as it professes to secure an expression of the will of the party; and that the "Crawford county plan," which, in substance, is a plan for the local primaries to instruct their delegates to the convention and make that instruction effectual, wholly fails to accomplish the object for which it was designed. He thereupon proposes a new plan, intended to cover the whole proceeding, from primaries to the election, which he thinks would bear the test of practice, though it appears to us cumbrous and unwieldy. His scheme, condensed, is as follows:

1st. Votes all to be registered. Assessors of property could make a list of names of voters at the time of assessing property.

2d. A blank with suitable official seal and signature containing a list of offices to be filled, to be issued through the postoffice. A suitable time before election, the names of the candidates to fill said offices to be inserted by the voters and the same returned through the postoffice.

3d. A given number of those having the largest number of votes to be official candidates to be voted for at a subsequent election to be conducted in the manner described.

5th. To guard against frauds the blanks for the final election should have on the backs a list of the votes with the voters' names annexed, as given in their respective precincts at the primary election. And after the final election the State authorities should issue to each candidate at the final election, a list of the votes cast in his district with the voters' names annexed.

The number of preliminary elections that must precede each final election, would of course depend upon the number of candidates for each office to be chosen out of those receiving the largest number of votes, and resubmitted; for these preliminary steps could not be discontinued till the contest for each office was reduced to two candidates. It is difficult to perceive why under this system, there might not be the same party machinery used to control the first preliminary election, that is now used to control the conventions. The person who shall teach us how to manage the party politics of the country in such a way as to make the nominations for office reflect the will of the party at large, rather than of a few professional politicians, will confer an incalculable benefit upon the country and upon the cause of popular government.

The Supreme Court of the United States commenced its adjourned term on the 28th of October, Chief Justice Chase presiding, and all the Associate Justices being present except Judges Nelson and Davis. The business on the calendar was proceeded with in its regular order, commencing with cause No. 75.

The fire-alarm telegraph is to be introduced into Sacramento.

James Anthony Froude.

James Anthony Froude, the English historian, who is now sojourning in the United States, is fifty-four years of age. He was graduated from Oxford in 1840. He was remarkable as a student for his literary tastes, and only a short time after taking his bachelor's degree, won the Chancellor's Prize for an English essay, and was unanimously elected a Fellow of Exeter College. In early life he was a High Churchman, and warmly espoused the "Oxford movement," which led to his determining to prepare for the ministry. After taking deacon's orders, which he did in 1845, he changed his views, abandoned the ministry and resolved to give himself exclusively to literature. Two years afterwards he published a volume of stories, bearing the title, "The Shadows of the Clouds;" and in two years more, a theological work entitled "The Nemesis of Faith." The views expressed in this work were peculiar, and the book produced considerable sensation, and caused the severing of his connection with the Church. It also made it necessary for him to give up an appointment as teacher in Tasmania, which he had held for some time.

His next and greatest work is his History of England. It embraces the period from the fall of Wolsey to the Death of Elizabeth. In style it is bold, independent and trenchant. He is peculiarly aggressive and vigorous in all his writings. One of the most admirable collections of essays in the English language is his "Short Studies on Great Subjects," which comprises a series of articles from his pen, contributed to different magazines and reviews. These articles are manly in tone, earnest in manner, and full of courage, but must be regarded as somewhat erratic. Froude was chosen Honorary Chancellor of the University of Glasgow, and his oration on the occasion was a magnificent eulogy upon Calvinism. He belongs to no particular school in theology or politics—or, rather, he belongs in turns to all schools. His visit to this country, with the declaration that he comes to set right the relations between the English Government and the Irish people, is a fair illustration of his character and conduct in general. That problem which has baffled the best statesmanship of England, with all the resources of the Government in its hands, Mr. Froude proposes to solve by a course of lectures in a foreign country.

The report of the Land Commissioner for the past fiscal year shows that the public lands are rapidly being disposed of. What with the large grants to the States for different purposes, and the various railway grants, in addition to the settlements made by individuals under the Homestead, Pre-emption and Military Bounty acts, the public domain is fast passing out of the hands of the Government. Most of it will soon become the homes of a hardy race, who will make it a blessing to themselves and the Government. The number of acres disposed of during the last year was as follows: homestead claims, 4,671,322; military bounty land warrant claims, 389,160; sold for cash, 1,370,320; certified to railways, 3,654,867; to wagon roads, 465,317; agricultural colleges, 693,613; scrip to States, 714,255; Indian tax scrip, 5,760;—total, 11,864,975 acres.

The total number of acres surveyed during the year was 29,450,930; and there still remain unsurveyed 1,251,693,620 acres. During the year there were 1,750 miles of land-grant railway constructed—a greater number than in any preceding year.

The Chicago and Canada Southern Railway Company propose to bridge the Detroit river. The Detroit people are highly indignant at the proposition, and have resolved vehemently against the enterprise as one that would materially interfere with commerce by obstructing the navigation of the river; and the Buffalo Board of Trade protest mildly, suggesting that the navigation of the lakes is of such importance that it ought not to be subjected to the inconvenience of passing through the draw of a bridge unless it is clear that this inconvenience will be fully compensated by the advantages of the bridge to the general commerce of the country. The Buffalo Board also suggest that the Detroit river should not be bridged, unless it is first found that a tunnel under it is impracticable.

A Washington letter says: Secretary Boutwell has directed Supervisor Inspector General Nimmo to invite plans and specifications for testing machines for carrying into practical operation section 36 of the steamboat act, which provides that every iron or steel plate used in the construction of steamboat boilers, and which shall be subject to a tensile strain, shall be inspected in such manner as the Secretary shall approve, so as to enable the inspectors to ascertain its tensile strength, homogeneousness, toughness and ability to withstand the effect of repeated heating and cooling. The various plans proposed will be submitted to a board composed of scientific men and experienced mechanics for their recommendation.

The Vancouver Register of last week announces that it will not be issued this week, as the printers want to take a vacation. The editor adds:

In the meantime we shall decide on the course to pursue in the future—whether to continue the paper in the interests in which it has been conducted, or to turn it over to some one to carry it on as a neutral paper.

Everybody was surprised at Linn county's giving a majority for Grant at the Presidential election. A friend from Albany explains the matter. He says that "this man Greeley was formerly an abolitionist, and the old Democrats of Linn found it out about a week before the election, and would not support him."

The New York Herald's Washington correspondent has the following:

The Attorney General has given an opinion to the effect that the spirit of the act of Congress providing for additional compensation for Government employes who were engaged by the day and worked more than eight hours applies to all in the Government service. The Second Comptroller holds that the act reaches only to mechanics, workmen and laborers, or, in other words, those only who performed manual labor: superintendents, watchmen and messengers are held by him not to be entitled to the extra compensation. As the opinions conflict, the subject will be referred to Congress for such additional legislation as may be necessary to warrant the accounting officers in allowing payment to all in Government employ at the time the eight hour law was not enforced.

E. L. Brooks, of Bodego, California, is the inventor of a double-gate which is so hung that persons desiring to pass through it with wagons are not required to alight for the purpose of opening or closing the gate. A lever at the side upon which the traveler approaches opens the gate, and a similar one at the other side closes it after him. These levers can be conveniently reached by a person seated in the buggy, and require only a child's strength to operate them.

There are forty seven cases on the docket for the November term of the Circuit Court for Yamhill county. Six are suits for divorce.

The following officers were elected for the city of Junction, on Thursday of last week: Geo. N. Fawcett, Recorder; J. W. Ball, Marshal; G. W. Smelser, A. T. Keys, T. O. Thompson, J. A. Sherwood, W. E. McKulip, Trustees; Louis Solomon, Treasurer.

Grand Master, T. McF. Patton, has issued the necessary Dispensations for two new Masonic Lodges in this State. One to be located at Gardiner City, Douglas county, and the other at Tillamook. The new lodge at Gervais, for which a charter was granted at the last annual convocation, was instituted and the proper officers installed a few evenings since. The prospects are very flattering for them.

At a meeting of the incorporators of the Union University Association, held last week at Eugene City, Messrs. J. M Thompson, J. J. Walton, Jr., Wm. J. J. Scott and B. F. Dorris were appointed a committee to open books and receive subscriptions to the University Fund. A meeting was held Friday evening and a committee appointed, consisting of Messrs. E. L. Bristow, Dr. A. W. Patterson, Wm. J. J. Scott, J. G. Gray and B. F. Dorris, to receive propositions for grounds for the location of the University.

Parties in Eugene City have commenced in good earnest the construction of a good road to a mineral hot spring which has been found about sixty miles east of that town on a tributary of the McKenzie fork of the Willamet. The Guard says: "The work of opening a road to it from the McKenzie bridge was begun some time since, and two weeks ago a mechanic, with tools and supplies for the winter, left here to erect a bath house and other buildings necessary at the spring. No thorough chemical analysis of the water has, we believe, been made, but simple tests show it to contain at least eleven of the most essential elements of the famous mineral waters of Europe and America, prominent among which may be mentioned soda, chlorine, arsenic, magnesium, sulphur and iron. There seems but little doubt that the McKenzie region will soon become, like the White Sulphur region of the State of Virginia, the sanitarium of a large extent of country.

A rather rich elopement has come off in Detroit. A sick son of "Lo" ran off with white man's squaw as a reward for being nursed by her and her husband. The pale face thus telegraphed to his brother in Chicago: "Wife is running away with a cussed Indian. Be at the depot with an officer to catch her. Kill the savage and lock up Virginia till I come."

MONDAY MORNING, NOVEMBER 11 1872

CITY.

OUR PRODUCTS ABROAD —During the past summer, the Northern Pacific Railroad Company have caused to be gathered from different portions of Oregon and Washington Territory various specimens of the productions of the two sections such as wheat, oats, barley, fruits, vegetables, etc These specimens have been arrayed and classified according to grade, and forwarded to the office of the Company in Philadelphia From New York papers, we observe that these productions have been exhibited recently at the American Institute Fair The New York Mail of a late date says, in alluding to these forwarded specimens

Some of the most interesting features of the American Institute Fair is the exhibition of the products of the Northern Pacific Valley, all specimens of which have been made accessible by means of that important line of transportation, the Northern Pacific railroad Judging from the products of these far Western States and Territories, that portion of the United States must be considered the garden of this Continent for richness and fertility Fine specimens of wheat, rye, oats and various kinds of grass, just as gathered from the ripened harvest fields, tied up in little bundles imitating sheaves, as well as each variety of grain threshed out and cleared of chaff, and put in glass jars, are to be seen at the Fair among these products Full stalks of wheat, rye and barley bend their heads gracefully, laden with rich grain, oats and grasses thus look more as if they were made to admire as purely ornamental instead of furnishing substantial food for animals From Oregon are five specimens of grain and fruit, among which latter are cherries of enormous size, and plums five of them weighing one pound Here are raised potatoes of the Early Rose variety weighing a pound and a half each, beets of fifteen pounds each, cabbages from twenty to twenty six, and some squashes weighing nine ty one pounds each Some of the soil of this Territory section may be seen at the fair, which to those interested in agriculture will be of great interest This soil in its natural state, exceeds in richness and depth the best of Eastern soil, after having been brought up by rich dressing to its highest state of cultivation It is five feet below the surface in depth Iron is abundant on the west side of the Columbia on the company's land other lands At Oswego, six miles above Portland, a furnace has been erected for the manufacture of pig iron

EXAMINATION CLOSED —The examination of the bottom of the Willamet river at a point opposite the foot of Columbia street by driving piles closed last Saturday evening The result proved of a most favorable character for the success of the proposed enterprise Piles were driven along at intervals across the river to test the nature of the soil at the several points Wherever an experiment was made the channel was found to be free from stones, and composed mainly of sand and earthy deposits, which offered no resistance to the entrance of the piles It was ascertained by repeated tests that piles could be driven without difficulty to a depth of from 20 to 30 feet The experiment is thought to have been as thorough as if boring had been substituted Major Robert, under whose supervision the experiments were made, having obtained the result showing the character of the bottom of the river, will proceed to San Francisco by next steamer, and as Chairman of the Board of Government Engineers, will present the results obtained, together with the plans and specifications of the bridge, for their approval Until the Board makes their report the company will suspend operations, and as soon as the result of their examination is made known they will at once commence sinking the piers which they expect to be able to do before January 1, 1873

DULL.—Yesterday was one of those dull, unin teresting days, which are the special aversion of reporters. There were no Courts, for it was a non judicial day, no accidents occurred, for people were too indolent to stir about much no quarrels or fights, for every one felt unusually peaceable, no drives, for the roads were too muddy no walking about, for the weather was too cold and rainy, and lastly, no sailing, for the wind was too strong In fine it was one of those dreadful, damp, disagreable days, when there is not the slightest item of news floating about in the air, when a reporter hankereth muchly after hot beverages which taketh the chill from one, and yearns to linger around the comfortable stove and when he turns with disgust from iced lemonades and mint julips Verily sich is life

IN JAIL.—Carroll, the half crazy fellow who was arrested Saturday, is still closely confined in his cell at the city jail He is quite docile behind iron bars, but it would be rather hazardous to allow him to walk out Carroll is a large, powerfully built man, evidently endowed with immense muscular strength, and has a wild, ferocious appearance. He is very belligerent, and manifests a strong disposition to "pitch in" to everything which comes along In his present semi demented condition, Carroll should not be allowed to go at large He is certainly a fit subject for the asylum, and steps ought to be taken to have him removed thither

QUANTITIES OF LUMBER —The lower saw mill has been engaged night and day for the past month, in sawing immense quantities of lumber a large portion of which will be necessary in the construction of the new warehouse near the east side depot This extensive lumbering establishment is thronged with orders for lumber and strained to the extent of its capacity although the mill daily turns out thousands of feet per day The great demand for lumber is not to be wondered at, when the immense quantities which are being used on Fourth street and along the line of railroads, are taken into account

NEW WAREHOUSE —The contract for the erection of a large warehouse on the east side, just below the railroad ferry landing, where excavations have been going on for months past, has been awarded to Thomas McKay, a well known contractor of Portland This warehouse will be the largest and most complete building of the kind in the State of Oregon It will be 310 by 50 feet in dimensions, two stories in height, and will contain nearly 600,000 feet of lumber—a greater quantity than any two other buildings in the state.

SAILED —The brigantine Pathfinder sailed from Honolulu for Portland on the 12th ult She is consequently overdue a number of days Some time ago a vessel was seen off the bar, which from appearances was supposed to be the Pathfinder The supposition was doubtless incorrect, or else she would have arrived ere this This little craft is under the command of Capt N L Rogers, long connected with the N P T Company

STORMY —Persons from Astoria inform us the evening most of the past week, it has been very stormy and boisterous about the mouth of the river Rain has fallen without much intermission, and the gales have been strong and high the weather has been so rough that the tug was compelled to abandon the effort several times made, to cross the bar, when sails were thought to be out, waiting to be towed in

CINNAMON —Numbers of Cinnamon were crossing the river yesterday from the east side A large proportion of these Celestials have been employed all the season in excavating at the east side wharf, and many of them engaged in grading and ballasting along the line of the road Work being suspended, these fellows are going into winter quarters until the resumption of work next spring.

CARMEN IN TIME —We call the attention of the traveling public to the change of time of the O R N Co's steamer Fannie Troup in the hour of departing from the city, as will be seen by consulting the advertising columns Commencing on Wednesday, 13th inst, that steamer will leave Portland for Kalama at one o'clock P M until further notice

WHARF EXTENSION —Pile driving was commenced last week just below the Steamship Company's dock, for a new wharf extension We are unable to give the dimensions of the contemplated improvement. The extension will be for the accommodation of the company s steamers and boats, the present wharf being insufficient

GULLS —A great number of gulls were seen hovering, skimming along over the surface of the river, or disporting themselves in the waters Weather prophets would say that the presence of these fowls indicate the near approach of a storm But in this country we can have a first class storm without the aid of these gulls.

AT THE SHOPS.—The large locomotive "June Gen" will be landed at the east side wharf to day She will be taken to the car shops at once The tender will be removed and the burnishing touches added before she will be ready to take the road

WILD GEESE —Flocks of wild geese are seen almost daily winging their way southward, toward more congenial regions, wherein to subsist until the return of Spring, otherwise spring when those hosts of these wild fowls will be seen again traveling towards the fields of the north to await the return of winter

ARRIVED —The American ship Jane Parker arrived Saturday evening from Kalama in tow of the tug Mermaid She is now lying at the east side wharf The Conqueror is under charter and will carry a cargo of wheat to Liverpool As soon as a cargo can be obtained she will commence to receive the same

DUE AT PORT —The steamer California is now due at this port from Victoria and Sound ports This steamer will bring to port the last stone for the new Custom House The stone which the California will bring over will be sufficient to complete the stone work, and completes the contract

LONG SESSION —There is a very large docket to clear at the coming term of the Circuit Court,—over 200 cases—and the term gives promise of dragging its weary length for many weeks The probabilities are that with little cessation the Court will continue to the first of January next

LAID UP —The steamer Oneonta was taken to the boneyard last week She will probably remain there until spring The Emma Hayward will take her place during the winter months being better calculated to take that line in the rough portion of the year than the Oneonta

NEARLY FINISHED —The ferry house at the foot of L street, East Portland, is so near completion, that a stove will render it a comfortable place at which comers and goers will delight to linger while waiting for the ferry boat, this cold, disagreeable weather

GROVE TO BE ORGANIZED —We understand that arrangements have been effected for the institution of a new Grove of the United Ancient Order of Druids, at Salem A proper officer of the Order will soon proceed to that place and organize a Grove

MOTIONS DECIDED —The U S. Circuit Court will convene this morning, when the motions in the cases of Toy William vs J L Hallett, Oh Chow and Gin Loo vs J L Hallett, and Sheat Wing Duck vs J. L Hallett, will be decided by Judge Deady

INVESTIGATING —The U S Grand Jury have been in session since last Wednesday Several cases have been examined into, but as yet no bills returned to the court We shall be able to publish to morrow some of the results of their investigations

READY FOR OCCUPANCY —The splendid new brick block of Smith Bros, near the corners of Ash and Front and First streets, is ready for occupancy Several firms have already moved into rooms on the first floors fronting on Front streets.

TRACK SANDED —A large quantity of sand has been scattered along the main and side tracks, between J street, and the east side depot The sand is for the purpose of filling in between the ties and more completely ballasting the tracks

CONVENED —The Circuit Court for Multnomah county, Judge Upton presiding, will convene at the Court House this morning at 9 o'clock All jurors are required to be present on the assembling of the court.

EXCAVATING COMPLETED —Excavating below the east side wharf for the new wharf and warehouse, has been completed, and the gang of Chinamen discharged, no more work at that point being necessary

NEW STABLE —The new stable in process of construction by the Oregon Transfer Company, has been covered and inclosed, and will soon be in a condition to be occupied

WILL ARRIVE —The steamer Oriflamme will be due at this port from San Francisco to morrow evening, unless the weather proves very unpropitious during the passage

READY FOR FREIGHT —The little schooner Annie Herron is now lying at Everding & Farrell's wharf She will be ready to receive freight to day for Tillamook.

LAUNCHED —The large scow which will be used in connection with the new dredger was launched from the ways, above Smith's mill, last Saturday.

HAULED DOWN —The steamer Gussie Telfair was hauled down to the lower saw mill last week, and moored along side the wharf

ORPHANS' FAIR.—The Orphans' Fair will commence at Vancouver to-morrow, and continue for several days successively

ADMITTED —John McCabe, a native of Ireland was admitted to citizenship in the U S District Court last Saturday

IN THE RIVER.—The little schooner Miss Bond from Tillamook Bay, is in the river, on the way to this port

The Key to Health

It is the easiest thing in the world to lose the blessings of health but when lost it is not easy to regain it The popular idea of fifty years ago that a tremendous scouring of the bowels was an even balance of cure in almost all diseases has fortunately for mankind been pretty effectually exploded The introduction of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters nearly a quarter of a century ago may be said to have given the coup de grace to drastic purgatives The world has learned from the beneficial effects produced by that admirable preparation, that one medicine may embrace the three properties of a tonic a laxative and an alterative that the three curative processes of digestion, purification and regulation may be consummated at the same time by the operation of a single agreeable remedy There are sound philosophical reasons for the remarkable improvement which the Bitters occasion in the condition of a deranged and enfeebled system This pure combination of vegetable juices not only strengthens the stomach stimulates the appetite and braces the nerves but also imparts tone and vigor to the secretory organs—as the skin the liver and the kidneys—and if the blood has become too thin and watery to nourish the body properly enriches and vitalizes it at raw material of all the solid portions of the frame At this period of the year, when intermittent fevers bilious disorders stomach complaints and dyspeptic and diarrhœa ailments are always more or less rife occasional use of the Bitters will be found the best safeguard against the atmospheric conditions which generate them An occasion l appetizer is necessary to enable the system to resist the morbid influence of the malarious vapors which rise from the earth at this season, and of all the known invigorants Hostetter's Bitters is the safest and the most potent

PLANTATION BITTERS!

S. T.--1860--X.

This wonderful vegetable restorative is the sheet-anchor of the feeble and debilitated. As a tonic and cordial for the aged and languid it has no equal among stomachics. As a remedy for the nervous weakness to which women are especially subject, it is superseding every other stimulant. In all climates, tropical, temperate or frigid, it acts as a specific in every species of disorder which undermines the bodily strength and breaks down the animal spirits.

GENERAL NOTES AND NEWS.

The official seal has been placed to the postal treaty between the Swiss Republic and the United States.

The German Lutheran Society of Sacramento have determined to build a fine church edifice, and also to establish at that place a grade school for the education of youth in the German tongue.

Rev. Charles Cheney, of Chicago, whose departure from the rites and usages of the church, got his church into the Court of Chancery and himself into the hands of the Bishops, is still preaching to his old congregation, who stand by him in spite of decrees temporal and ecclesiastical.

A new line of steamships has been put on the line from New York to South Wales. The proprietors are a wealthy English company, the most prominent of its members being the Marquis of Bute, who is said to be one of the largest land owners in England. The first steamer of the line, the Glamour has already reached new York.

FINANCE AND COMMERCE.

Financial.

SATURDAY EVENING, Nov. 9, 1872.

Gold in New York to-day, 114¼.

Portland Legal Tender rates, 83½@ buying; 80½@ selling.

Wheat in Liverpool, 12s 6d; Club, 12s@12s 3d.

Exchange by telegraph, via New York, 1¼@1½ per cent. premium; via San Francisco, par to ¼ per cent. premium.

Our latest advices by mail and telegraph from the Eastern cities would seem to indicate a decreasing stringency in monetary matters. The Bank Statements in New York for the week ending Oct. 26th, show a loss of surplus reserve of over two and a half millions. The N. Y. Herald of that date, however, says, "The amount of surplus is still considerable for the season of the year, and the banks are as strong as they were six weeks or two months ago, before the Fall shipments of currency began. The loans show an increase of over four millions, and we have reason for believing that the accommodation went chiefly to the mercantile interest. The heavier imports of the week have drawn upon and diverted a great deal of coin into the Sub-Treasury, so that with the specie exported during the week counting partially in the averages the item of specie shows a falling off of nearly two millions. A small decrease in legal tenders has no noteworthy signification. An increase in deposits is as nearly as may be the remainder after deducting the loss of specie from the increase in loans. The statement compares with its predecessor of last week as follows:

	Oct 19	Oct 26.
Loans	$270,557,800	$274,925,000
Specie	12,625,500	10,795,300
Circulation	27,766,300	27,680,000
Deposits	201,031,500	203,204,400
Legal Tenders	52,586,400	52,342,100

The changes being in detail as follows:

Increase in loans	$4,367,400
Decrease in specie	1,830,200
Decrease in circulation	20,300
Increase in deposits	2,172,100
Decrease in legal tenders	$44,300

of the above figures shows that the banks have now the sum of $3,415,275 in excess of the reserve required by law—a loss for the week of $2,012,200."

But the seeming relaxation in financial affairs in San Francisco noted last week appears to have been temporary in its character, and the pressure there is now in as full force as ever. An exchange from that city on the 4th says: "In general market the week opened with more than usual dullness. The rain, which appears to have fairly set in, the all-engrossing Presidential election, the painful stringency in the money market, and the immense losses sustained by business men and their customers through the fall of nearly $50,000,000 in stocks during the past four months, together with the heavy imports of all descriptions of goods which are being forced on the market, all combine to create alarm in the minds of the prudent about the future of this market, and cause business to be confined to the immediate requirements for consumption."

Poor Crops in Scotland.

The harvest in Scotland was, according to the Scotsman, the wettest and most disastrous that has been known since the year 1816, when what were known as the Meal Riots took place. The heavy and continued fall of rain during the second week of September drenched the sheaves of cut grain through and through, which is in many cases an irreparable mischief. A good many samples of oats and wheat, as well as of barley, have been shown in Edinburg Corn Exchange during the first three weeks; but when compared with the grain of the crop of 1871, they exhibit an astonishing and deplorable deterioration, but even that does not show the full damage done to the crop, because all the grains that had seriously sprouted had been taken out of the samples by means of screens and riddles. The worst fears regarding the potato crop have been realized, and an illustration of the extent of the failure of the crop is given. In ordinary years, a stout man with three assistants (two women and a boy), could easily raise and weigh ready for market eight bolls, or thirty-two cwt. potatoes every day. For the last fortnight it has taken a very active man and three assistants to one and a half bolls, or six cwt. of sound, and three bolls, or twelve cwt. of diseased potatoes per day.

Tea Trade.

An English paper, under this head, has the following: "The first steamer of the new British Pacific Mail Company will leave Hongkong for San Francisco about the 1st of January. The steamers of the new line will be iron propellors, whereas the vessels of the American line are side-wheel steamers, and it is said that by the economy of compound engines, and by taking a more northern route, the British Company expects to make quicker time than is now made, and thus divert a large portion of the Tea trade which now goes by sailing vessels to England and New York. The Company has secured American agents in both San Francisco and Hongkong, and seem determined to make a strong effort to succeed in the Pacific carrying trade. The prospect is very good for the rapid augmentation of this commerce in the near future."

Thus there is to be a strong English opposition as well as an American one to the Suez route for Teas, to land at San Francisco. This opposition may be extended to a line of propellors from Panama to China direct, thus cutting off that city from a share in the transit trade. The Tea trade has now actual and possible five routes before it. First, the direct line by sail from China to New York; second, by P. M. S. S. Co's steamers to San Francisco; third, by new English lane from China to San Francisco; fourth, by steamers via Suez Canal to New York; fifth, by steamers, China to Panama for transit. What interests San Francisco may have in retaining the trade should be exerted to the utmost while the matter is still an open question.

Wheat Crop of the U. S. in 1872.

A synopsis of the October crop report of J. R. Dodge, statistician of the Department of Agriculture, indicates the comparative production of wheat on the 1st of October. The record of the yield of wheat is quite as variable as was that of its condition during the summer. Some States have made superior crops, and others almost the poorest ever known. The New England States have nearly sustained their usual average. The Middle States and Maryland together reduced their last year's aggregate from 37,900,000 to 24,000,000, or 35 per cent. The Southern States, from Virginia to Tennessee, which were known to have increased largely their wheat area, appear to have enlarged their production 50 per cent, or from 18,000,000 to 27,000,000 bushels. California has improved her product at least 75 per cent. Minnesota and Iowa have made a material increase, while Missouri and Kansas, the former growing her wheat mainly, the latter both winter and spring—have had comparative failure in both particulars. Virginia and Kentucky have had good crops, while Maryland and Ohio return diminished yields, as does the entire district between Ohio and the lakes, the Missouri and the Hudson. Returns received from counties representing a large proportion of the wheat of each State indicate an increase of about five per cent. over the product of last year, which was estimated at 230,000,000 bushels. It is probable the completed returns will not fall short of 240,000,000 bushels, upon an area of little less than 20,000,000 acres.

This will make a yield of between twelve and thirteen bushels an acre, which may be considered an average for the United States. The increase in the States west of Mississippi appears to be about 16,000,000 bushels, or in comparison with last year's product eighty-five million to seventy million bushels. The central line of wheat production running north and south is this year farther west than ever before and is nearly identical with the 96th meridian which divides centrally the States of Wisconsin and Illinois. Nearly all the wheat produced between this line and the Mississippi river is grown in the w st n half of those two States. The quality of the wheat is, in most of the States, better than last year. The percentage of the product in comparison with the last year in each of the States is as follows: Maine, 109; New Hampshire, 98; Vermont, 95; Massachusetts, 90; Connecticut, 90; New York 70; New Jersey, 80, Pennsylvania, 80; Delaware, 75; Maryland, 66; Virginia, 101; North Carolina, 120; South Carolina, 115; Mississippi, 101, Texas, 320; Arkansas, 102; Tennessee, 100; West Virginia, 104; Kentucky, 110; Ohio, 85, Michigan, 88, Indiana, 103; Illinois, 95; Wisconsin, 121; Minnesota, 150; Iowa, 112; Missouri, 60; Kansas, 30; Nebraska, 140; California, 175; Oregon, 108. In States where the crop was short last year, as Kentucky and Texas, the percentage of the increase is heavy. In California it is mainly due to an increase of area and a superior rate of yield.

Pacific Coast Carrying Trade.

The Pacific Gulf of the 5th predicts a fall in freight on this coast, and says: The engagement of the bark Sierra Nevada, which left New York for this port on Saturday, to load Wheat for Liverpool at £4 5s, indicates that in some quarters high freight rates are expected to continue well into the spring months. This vessel will not reach this port much before the last of March. The reported supply of tonnage on the way is very liberal, but does not include all the vessels that are now out for this port. The ship John O. Gannt arrived yesterday from Shanghai in ballast, unannounced, and there are doubtless others on the way that are unreported. There can be little doubt that a sufficient supply of tonnage is now, or soon will be, on the way, to carry all the Wheat the State will have to spare, and appearances indicate a considerable decline in rates.

The Republican of the same city says: There is now scarcely a question of a sufficiency of tonnage to move the remaining surplus of Wheat. The only trouble is, we may not be able to get the grain to market before next harvest, on account of the rainy season, which interferes with the dispatch of vessels.

The following vessels are reported by the Bulletin to be on the way to this port, in addition to those heretofore noted: Bark Admiral Pitzroy, 377 tons, from Guayacan; bark Gemma, 125 tons, from Liverpool, via Iquiqui, to Howell, Wilson & Co.; of this city; bark Sarah Scott, 560 tons, from Cardiff, via Yokohama, to Hewitt, Wilson & Co.

Miscellaneous.

New York mail advices, to October 26th, report a further improvement in Hops. That market was very firm for all kinds. The receipts since September 1st have been only about one half what they were during the same time last year, the quality of which was not good.

The National Gold Note Bank of San Francisco declared a dividend of one per cent. for the month of October.

The New York Herald says the horse disease has been a great drawback on the business of the city, and that the various European steamships have been seriously incommoded in receiving their cargoes from this cause.

The exports of specie from the port of New York during the first ten months of 1872 amounted to the sum of $62,184,050, being an increase of about $6,000,000 over those of a corresponding period of last year.

The forthcoming report of the Postmaster General will exhibit the astounding, yet gratifying fact, that the increase of receipts in this single department over those of last year will not be less than two millions, two hundred and twenty thousand dollars.

Home Finance.

Our local money market presents no change for the better. A demand for funds continues from the interior, more especially from the Wallamet valley. The most of this is for the purchase of grain to load the increasing number of vessels now in port and to arrive. The demand does not meet with that ready response, which indicate that all producers who desire to sell can be accommodated at a very early period in the winter without assistance from abroad. The facts are, such has been the drain of coin from our city to pay for unusually large imports of the season, that the funds are not on hand. The scarcity of money in our midst is just now being illustrated in a practical way by the large number of cases on file in our Circuit Court for the foreclosure of mortgages. The cases are to be determined at the term which begins next Monday.

Produce Market.

The Wheat now on hand and purchased to arrive, will probably be sufficient to load the vessels now in our waters, and from thissource the demand will probably not be increased. Other vessels are now on the way here in sufficient numbers to carry the quarter portion of our surplus Wheat. We see in a San Francisco paper that an English vessel at Callao, Peru, has been chartered to load Wheat at Portland, Oregon, for Liverpool at £5 10s., about $20 62½ U. S. standard. We are inclined to believe a sufficient tonnage has been turned this way to take away our crop, and to reduce the high tariff for freights heretofore ruling. To this more than anything else we attribute a freer disposition on the part of buyers to purchase at $1 40 per cental.

Oats are in demand, and receipts are quoted light. $1 35@1 45 ₩ 100 lbs are freely given. Some small shipments have lately been made to the Northern coast, where the demand is now, and will likely continue good during the season.

Flour is rather more active, but rates of Friday's report are unchanged.

Feed of all varieties continues to come forward in quantities quite sufficient to supply the home demand, and there have been only limited shipments so far.

Potatoes are dull. A large crop is evidently the result of the season's planting. The California market seems overstocked.

Butter and Cheese of the best quality are scarce, and prices tending upward, especially for the former.

Eggs are in good demand, 35c ₩ doz is the ruling figure.

The fruit crop seems to have been pretty fair. Notwithstanding the fear that the late frosts last spring had destroyed nearly all the Apples, the local demand is well supplied with a quality but little inferior to former years.
